CREATING DYNAMIC INTERACTIVE ALERT MESSAGES BASED ON EXTENSIBLE DOCUMENT DEFINITIONS

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

An unsolicited dynamic interactive message is created wherein the message defines any graphical user interface elements to be displayed, the rules associated with the message, the appropriate methods and functions which can be performed and specific contextual interactions supported. The message definition can originate from a local or remote computer and can be pre and post processed as specified by the computing environment and the message definition itself.